TA 101

the official internationally recognised introductory course in Transactional Analysis.

Transactional analysis is a social psychology developed by Eric Berne, MD. Berne's theory consists of key concepts to change patterns of interaction that interfere with achieving your life aspirations.

The goal of Transactional Analysis is to Increase your capacity for Awareness, Spontaneity and Intimacy. In this 3-day TA 101 course you will learn and apply concepts for effective and meaningful relating. You will discover the obstacles to living personal and professional lives to your fullest potential.

A TA 101 course is an internationally recognized training of development that improves personal interaction.
